Common Purpose Programmes
MATRIX | NAVIGATOR | PROFILE
changing leaders – leading change

Common Purpose aims to improve the way society works by expanding the vision, decision-making ability and influence of all kinds of leaders.

We run a variety of leadership programmes, they are unique in several ways and rather than sitting in meeting rooms studying abstract management problems or wrestling with intellectual exercises, Common Purpose participants:

- Go out into their own community and grapple with real life problems at first hand
- Visit prisons, housing developments, businesses, hospitals and manufacturing plants in order to find inspiration outside their usual experience
- Tackle live issues together - often with the people who carry real-life responsibility for them
- Trade leadership experiences and strategies with other leaders, working in a variety of different fields
- Discover common interests with their peers in other sectors of the community and develop wider networks.

We are currently seeking nominations for three Common Purpose programmes: Belfast Matrix, Northern Ireland Navigator and Belfast Profile. Click on the following links:

- Matrix is a unique, locally rooted programme for experienced leaders
- Navigator is a leadership programme for emerging, high-potential individuals
- Profile provides a two-day local briefing created to increase your effectiveness in the area where you operate.
