

Taken from www.politics.ie

Re: Common Purpose

by J E DeHann August 6th, 2008, 8:07 pm

Middleton, the CP guru is a marxist. CP is the murky ubiquitous soup that binds the shrinking Irish middleclass climbers. Under a veil of secrecy called the Chatter House rule, they are not obliged to disclose discussion or whom was at their meetings.

When your goal is to destabilize an economy and the well knitted fabric of a functioning economic society, just introduce a few sideways thinking social and money climbers, convince those whom are too weak minded to see the scam that they are "leaders", give them free reign to "lead beyond authority (ability)" and watch your hegelian magic work. You have to hand it to Middleton and her funders. What a mind job!

This all leads into a society where only the ruthless make money, and there is no room for morality or even "rules" of work. It has worked a charm on the UK. It is now ready for takeover.

In case you hadn't noticed, the website has been altered to remove names of individuals that were previously listed. Forward thinking pro Christian that I am, I saved these images (as of 30 December 2007) and note the following members (now removed from the site):

Peter Nash (Chair), National College of Ireland
David Cagney, Dublin Institute of Technology

Nicholas Davies, Grant Thornton
Ruth Hickey, Carr Communications
Kevin Marshall, Microsoft Ireland
Derek Moriarty, Deloitte & Touche Caroline Nash, Louvain Institute for Ireland in Europe Rowena Neville, Business2Arts Anne O
Sullivan, Department of Education & Science Dave Renwick, AIB
Capital Markets Elizabeth Ryan Mason, Hayes & Curran Marian Vickers, Northside Partnership

Dublin Sponsors:

- AIB
- BUPA Ireland
- Department of Community, Rural and Gaeltacht Affairs
- Diageo
- Deloitte & Touche
- Dublin Bus
- Dublin City Council
- First Impression Designers
- Friends First
- Hamilton Osborne King
- KPMG
- Mater Private Hospital
- McCann Fitzgerald
- National College of Ireland
- Office of Public Works (OPW)
- St. Stevens Green Trust
- TASCQ (Traders in the Area Supporting the Cultural Quarter)
- Ulster Bank
- Vhi Healthcare

CORK OFFICE

Chief Executive

Common Purpose Ireland

Jackie Butler

jackie.butler@commonpurpose.ie

Senior Programme Co-ordinator

Michelle Green

michelle.green@commonpurpose.ie

Common Purpose

Albert Quay House

Albert Quay

Cork

tel: +353 (0)21 492 4694

fax: +353 (0)21 492 4695

email: munster@commonpurpose.ie

2006 Cork Focus Participants

Ruth Buckley

Head of Information

Cork City Council

Tony Buckley

Assistant Secretary/ Head of South West Division

Revenue Commissioners

Tara Byrne
Director
The National Sculpture Factory

Barry Colgan
HR Manager
Thomas Crosbie Holdings

Gretta Crowley
Manager Local Health Office – South Lee
Health Service Executive

Cork Advisory Group

Dave Ronayne (Chair), Irish Mainport Holdings
Shemas Eivers, Client Solutions
Michael Geary, Cork Marketing Partnership
Frankie Whelehan, Choice Hotels Ireland
Bernadette McGonigle, Refugee Legal Services
John Curran, Musgrave Group Plc
Fiona Kearney, Lewis Glucksman Gallery
Jim O'Donovan, Cork City Council
Anne O'Leary, Cadcoevolution
Ann O'Sullivan, Cork City Partnership
Padraig O' Duinnin, Meithal Mara
Pat Hegarty, AIB
Eileen O'Brien, Churchfield Community Trust
Cork Sponsors

- Bank of Ireland
- The Bowen Group

- Cork City Council
- Cork Prison
- FÁS

Ernst & Young

When you look at the above names this may mean little. But consider the organisations and the potential for conflicts of interest. If you are part of an elect club, and can make a bit O' cash on the side or profit from an acquaintance, it does not take a stretch of the imagination to see that there is potential for things in our society to get even more messed up, with CP Marxists weaving their secret webs.

I have already seen things happen in the planning sphere that should not hapen (Wicklow County Council). Invariably, there is a Bank and KPMG involved. Make no doubt. These guys are as crooked as be dammed, but they would just retort -sure if Bertie Can do it, why not us!

I had posted something on them on Indymedia a while ago but it was removed swiftly removed.

Lets see if this one remains.

"A king exercises not falsehood nor force nor oppressive might. He is righteous towards all his people, both weak and strong." Old Irish Brehan Law.